

PIACENZA EXPO CHOOSES THE RIGHT DATE 2021 FOR GEOFLUID

Piacenza Expo has decided to postpone until 2021 the new edition of Geofluid which will take place precisely from 15 to 18 September in the exhibition centre of Piacenza.

The choice, after a provisional shift in May, has taken into account the indications received by exhibitors, the opportunities offered by the international trade fair calendars and the availability of the structure. It is a happy location in an ideal period for the Geofluid format that also includes a prestigious and large outdoor exhibition area.

The theme of the health emergency has influenced this decision for a salon that in the last edition recorded over 11,000 professional visitors from 86 countries. esters. relocate in a period where a better mobility of operators from foreign markets is assumed. reference will allow for greater visibility by encouraging the growth of business contacts.

The shift is in addition to the continuous adjustments already underway in almost all Italian and international trade fair calendars that include technical trade fairs of international qualification. Piacenza Expo has decided to redefine the dates to ensure a successful event like Geofluid, all the best conditions to encourage a massive and qualified presence of professional visitors:

a heritage of relationships that has always been the added value of the fair.

Geofluid is therefore confirmed as a tailor-made appointment with a very high specialization that provides an essential and immediate tool for operators in the sector. The 2021 edition will represent even more a strategic moment to understand in what way the continental economy, the orders international and major works on public infrastructure will be able to generate revenue recovery.

The next edition is therefore preparing to be an important moment to plan future work. in the drilling, foundation and underground work sector. The main compartments such as GEOTECH - GEOTUNNEL- GEOCONTROL - NODIG - GEOTHERMIA, and These will be flanked by a series of informative initiatives on the energy transition phase.

Geofluid's conferences have always represented the added value compared to other events. Management energy resources, water and circular economy, pollutant management and environmental protection, prevention of hydrogeological risk through the removal of groundwater or surface water, startups in the drilling and foundation industry, technological innovation and efficiency improvement energy of machinery will be some of the themes of the 2021 edition for a vision project for the next 10 years.

Geofluid 2021 awaits more than 280 direct exhibitors for an edition that will involve, thanks to the favorable season, the whole territory in order to offer a complete fair experience to the participating companies and trade visitors.
